From the East

Hello Brothers and Sisters,

WoW!!! October already.....We continue to move forward with bringing in the new Brothers. We will be having practices for the Fellow Craft Degree and potentially voting on a new member. Worshipful Kenny has been moving along with the catechisms. Kudos to him on always doing a great job with that.

A few of us participated in the Orange Blossom Lodge No. 80 Golf Tournament at Royal Saint Cloud Links. Worshipful Jeff Hall, Brothers Bautista and Lacson and myself golfed, if you can call it that. Worshipful Kenny was my driver, interesting stories if you want to ask..... we took last place overall. See the photos for more info.

We have tentatively set the Fellow Craft Degree for November 7th, 2026. It will be held at 1 p.m. It will be held after Memorial Lodge is completed. We will be hosting Masters and Wardens that day. Please come out and support our Brothers.

A heads up to all the veterans and their families in our Lodge. I am planning a catered lunch on Veterans Day. Lunch will be served at noon, followed by presentations in the Lodge Room. Please plan on attending.....see attached flyer.

I want to remind everyone about the Christmas Parade. We will be doing a float again and need your help and participation. The parade will be on December 5th at 10:00 a.m. I will provide the theme when they have a meeting about it.

Come on out to the Lodge and be apart of us getting better!!!

God Bless you all.

Fraternally,
Ernie Paton

From the West

My Beloved Brothers,

As October arrives and another year begins to move toward its close, I invite each of us to spend a quiet moment reflecting on one simple question:

How have I been doing as a Mason this year?

Not how many meetings have I attended, what position have I held, or how well do I know the ritual but have I truly lived as a Mason?

Have I been there when a Brother needed me? Have I practiced patience when it was easier to become angry? Have I forgiven? Have I listened before judging? Have I helped someone without expecting recognition? And when I looked at my own rough ashlar, did I work upon my own imperfections before pointing toward those of another?

My Brothers, sometimes the most important Masonic work happens when no one is watching. It happens within the heart.

We entered this fraternity seeking Light, but receiving Light also gives us the responsibility to live by that Light. Every day gives us another opportunity to become a little more compassionate, a little more humble, and a little better than the man we were yesterday.

As we reflect upon these past months, let us not ask whether we have been perfect. Instead, let us ask whether we are still willing to learn, to forgive, to serve, and to continue working upon ourselves.

Before this year ends, may each of us look into the mirror and quietly ask: "Am I becoming the Mason and the man I promised myself I would become when I first knocked upon that door?"

May the Great Architect of the Universe give us wisdom to recognize where we must improve, humility to accept it, and strength to continue our labor.

God bless you, my dear Brothers, and may God continue to bless and protect your families.

Fraternally,
Angel Cardona

I hope this message finds everyone healthy and in good spirits.

Grand Lodge has introduced a new platform to assist with travel throughout the district. The application, called Simple Click, is now available for use.

You can register for the app on any computer or mobile device by visiting: www.grandlodgefl.app/login and creating your account. The registration process is straightforward; however, if you need any assistance, please feel free to reach out by email at saintcloudlodge221@outlook.com and I will assist you however I can.

Once registered, you will be able to log your visits as you travel to different Lodges within the district and throughout others. At each event, simply scan the QR code provided to check in. Your attendance will be recorded automatically—making the process quick, easy, and efficient.

May God watch over you and your families, bringing peace to a world that desperately needs it.

"A Master's Wages"

Excerpted from www.themasonlight.com

"The Craft has a glorious history; a symbolism the study of which is endless; a curious legal structure of which law-minded men never tire is so interwoven with the story of the nation as to make the thoughtful thrill; joins hands with religion in the secret places of the heart in a manner both tender and touching. These "foreign countries" have neither gate nor guard at the frontier . . . the Master Mason may cross and enter at his will, sure of wages wherever he wanders within their borders.

Master's Wages are paid in acquaintances. Unless a newly-made Master Mason is so shy and retiring that he seeks the farthest corner of his Lodge Room, there to sit and shrink into himself, inevitably he will become acquainted with many men of many minds, always an interesting addition to the joy of life. What he does with his acquaintances is another story, but at least the wages are there, waiting for him. No honest man insures his house thinking it will burn, but the insurance policy in the safe is a great comfort, well worth all that it costs. It speaks of help should fire destroy his home; it assures that all its owner has saved in material wealth will not be lost should carelessness or accident start a conflagration. No honest man becomes a Freemason thinking to ask the Craft for relief. Yet the consciousness that poor is the Lodge and sodden the hearts of the brethren thereof from which relief will not be forthcoming if the need is bitter, is wages from which comfort may be taken.

Freemasonry is not, "per se," a relief organization. It does not exist merely for the purpose of dispensing charity. Nor has it great funds with which to work its gentle ministrations to the poor. Fees are modest; dues are often too small rather than too large. Yet, for the brother down and out, who has no coal for the fire, no food for his hungry child, whom sudden disaster threatens, the strong arm of the Fraternity stretches forth to push back the danger. The cold are warmed, the hungry fed, the naked clothed, the jobless given work, the discouraged heartened. Master's Wages, surely far greater than the effort put forth to earn them. Relief is not limited to a brother's own Lodge. In most Jurisdictions there is a Masonic Home, in which, at long last, a brother's weary body may rest, his tired feet cease their wandering.

No Freemason who has visited any Masonic Home and there seen old brethren and their widows eased down the last long hill in peace and comfort; the children of Masons under friendly influences which insure safe launching of little ships on the sea of life; comes away thankful that there is such a haven for him, should he need it, even if he hopes never to ask for its aid. Stranded in a strange place, no Freemason worries about getting aid. In all large centers is a Board of Masonic Relief to hear his story, investigate his credentials and start the machinery by which his Lodge may help him. In smaller places is almost invariably a Lodge with brethren glad to give a sympathetic hearing to his troubles. To the brother in difficulty in what to him is a "foreign country," ability to prove himself a Freemason is Master's Wages, indeed.

Freemasonry is strong in defense of the helpless. The Widow and the orphan need ask but once to receive bounty. All brethren hope to support their own, provide for their loved ones, but misfortune comes to the just and unjust alike. To be one of a world-wide brotherhood on which widow and child may call is of untold comfort, Master's Wages more precious than the coin of gold.

Finally is the right of Masonic burial. At home or abroad no Freemason, know to desire it, but is followed to his last home by sorrowing brethren who lay him away under the apron of the Craft and the Sprig of Acacia of immortal hope. This, too, is Wages of a Master.

Chaplains Corner

Brothers of Saint Cloud Lodge,

Brothers of Saint Cloud Lodge. My topic this month is titled "Where were you on September 11th 2001"?

I was living in Maryland near Annapolis and working for the power company. I was 53 years old and had a wife and daughter 13 years old at the time. I was working the night shift 6pm to 6am and was in bed a sleep when my wife called home to wake me and told me about the attack. She told me to pick up our daughter at school. The school was closed down after the second plane hit the tower. By the time I got my daughter home the 3rd plane had hit the Pentagon in Washington DC. That was 40 miles from our home.

The call came down from FAA to ground all air traffic. I have a friend that worked air traffic control at BWI airport. He had to get all the traffic down and fine room to park all planes. We have talked about that day many times over the past several years. He said it was the worst day in his time as a controller.

The night of 911 I went into work. We did not know if the power plants would be a target for attack. We made our rounds looking for anything out of place. I came across a smell of smoke with no source of fire. All 5 guys on shift came to me and we found the source 30 minutes later. It was from a careless smoker and the butt was burning on the roof. The fans pulled the smoke into the plant. After we found the source and put it out, we all had the same thought. Was someone getting us into one area of the plant and leaving another area unprotected?

This was my 911 story. I think of it the same way as my parents did about Pearl Harbor. The major difference is they did not know where it occurred. 911 was so close to home for me. Many Americans felt anger towards the Japanese which is very similar to what happened here. We need to remember those that lost their lives and continue to struggle mentally and physically with 911.

Everyone here has a story about their 911. Let's not forget.

David Smith

Old Saint Cloud Masonic Lodge

What is a Masonic Lodge?
A Masonic lodge is more than a building; it is a living, breathing organization made up of and sustained by the members themselves. It is a tight-knit group of men who make solemn vows to one another and become comrades in Masonry and life.
Above all, a Masonic lodge represents open arms, a helping hand, and brotherly love to every Mason, anywhere, at any time.

Famous Mason of the Month

John Hancock

John Hancock (January 23, 1737 – October 8, 1793) was an American Founding Father, merchant, statesman, and prominent Patriot of the American Revolution. He was the longest-serving president of the Continental Congress, having served as the second president of the Second Continental Congress and the seventh president of the Congress of the Confederation. He was the first and third governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. His large and stylish signature on the United States Declaration of Independence led to John Hancock or Hancock becoming a colloquialism for a person's signature. He also signed the Articles of Confederation, and used his influence to ensure that Massachusetts ratified the United States Constitution in 1788.

Before the American Revolution, Hancock was one of the wealthiest men in the Thirteen Colonies, having inherited a profitable mercantile business from his uncle. He began his political career in Boston as a protégé of Samuel Adams, an influential local politician, though the two men later became estranged. Hancock used his wealth to support the colonial cause as tensions increased between colonists and Great Britain in the 1760s. He became very popular in Massachusetts, especially after Boston customs officials seized his sloop Liberty in 1768 and charged him with smuggling. Those charges were eventually dropped; he has often been described as a smuggler in historical accounts, but the accuracy of this characterization has been questioned.

John Hancock was a documented Freemason who joined the Lodge of St. Andrew in Boston in October 1762.

Masonic Timeline

- 1762: Took his early Masonic degrees, with some records indicating he initially received degrees through Merchants Lodge No. 277 (or No. 1) in Quebec, Canada, around 1762.
- October 14, 1762: Affiliated and became a member of the Lodge of Saint Andrew in Boston, Massachusetts, where he was sponsored by Thomas Crafts.

Suspension and Expulsion: Part One

As Masons, we have both rights and responsibilities. When we fail to live up to those responsibilities, we may violate Masonic Law. Each Grand Lodge has its own system of justice, and the details may differ from one jurisdiction to another. This article offers a general discussion of two serious Masonic penalties: suspension and expulsion. It is offered for education and discussion, not as a statement of Florida Masonic Law. Note: The Masonic Law of the Grand Lodge of Florida may not be fully consistent with this commentary.

Because the topic is lengthy, it has been divided into three parts for publication in successive Trestle board education segments.

Suspension

Suspension is a temporary loss of the rights and privileges of Freemasonry. There are two kinds of suspension: definite and indefinite. In both cases, the Brother is unable to exercise Masonic privileges while suspended. The difference is how and when restoration takes place.

1. Definite Suspension. Definite suspension means suspension for a fixed period of time. The length of the suspension is stated in the sentence. During that time, the Brother may not visit Lodges, hold Masonic communication, or receive Masonic relief. However, he does not lose his Masonic membership entirely. His rights are placed on hold until the period of suspension ends.

When the fixed period ends, the Brother is restored to his former position without further action, unless the governing law requires otherwise. For example, if a Lodge officer is suspended for three months, his official duties are also suspended during that time. Once the three months have expired, he resumes his Masonic rights and, if still applicable, the office he held before the suspension.

2. Indefinite Suspension. Indefinite suspension has no fixed end date. It continues until the Lodge, or another authority named by the Grand Lodge, restores the Brother. While suspended, the Brother's rights and privileges are placed on hold just as they are during a definite suspension. In either case, suspension should follow proper notice, due process, and trial as required by the applicable Masonic law.

Restoration works differently for the two kinds of suspension. A definite suspension ends when the stated time expires, unless the Lodge or Grand Lodge shortens the period according to its rules. An indefinite suspension ends only when the proper Masonic authority votes or acts to restore the Brother.

For an indefinite suspension, restoration normally requires action at a regular Lodge meeting or another method provided by the Grand Lodge.

A suspended Brother cannot enjoy the privileges of membership during the suspension. For that reason, some writers have argued that his dues should also be suspended during that period. Local Grand Lodge law should always control this question.

The exact vote required for suspension or restoration may vary by jurisdiction. Each Lodge should consult the law and procedures of its own Grand Lodge.

Food For Thought

The numbers 3, 5, and 7 are progressive stages of moral and intellectual instruction encountered during the Fellow Craft degree ceremony:

3 (Three steps) Symbolizes the three principal officers of a lodge and the three stages of human life (youth, manhood, and old age). It represents a moral foundation, discipline, and devotion to learning.

5 (Five steps) Refers to the five human senses (by which man apprehends the world), the five points of fellowship, and the five orders of architecture. It signifies the disciplined growth of the mind and the training of human faculties.

7 (Seven steps) Represents completeness and the seven liberal arts and sciences (grammar, rhetoric, logic, arithmetic, geometry, music, and astronomy). This final set of steps leads to the culmination of knowledge and wisdom in the "Middle Chamber".
